REPORT OF THE PRESIDENT

I have the honor to present a formal report for the two years, July 1, 1924, to June 30, 1926. As usual, oral reports were made annually to the trustees. The supplementary reports of other administrative officers are included.

Several changes in the membership of the Board of Trustees during this period have occurred. When Mr. Eugene V. R. Thayer removed from Boston to New York, he presented his resignation to the Board. The trustees declined to release him, feeling reluctant to lose his advice and counsel, especially in the Finance Committee of which he was a member. Finally, however, in September 1925 his resignation was accepted. He was elected to the Board in 1914, and was a member of the Finance Committee throughout his service. Mr. Alfred Aiken presented his resignation in June 1925. He had been a member of the Board since 1919, and throughout this time had been a member of the Finance Committee, where his experience in banking interests was especially valuable. It was with great regret that the trustees accepted his resignation. Mr. Galen L. Stone offered his resignation in the summer of 1925. It was only because of his insistence that the trustees accepted his resignation in September 1925. Mr. Stone was elected to the Board in 1915, and was serving on the Executive Committee and on the Finance Committee at the time of his resignation. In spite of the many claims on his time and thought, Mr. Stone gave his personal attention to the affairs of the College. He was a generous donor to the Library and to the Art Department, and when the academic group on Norumbega Hill is complete, the tower will be the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Stone. To fill the vacancies resulting from these resignations, the trustees elected Mr. Frederic Haines Curtiss, Mr. James Dean and Mr. Clifton H. Dwinnell. These gentlemen were immediately put upon the Finance Committee and have already been of great service.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

As stated in the last report, the trustees, in 1923, gave the Academic Council of the Faculty the privilege of nominating a member of the Board, and in November 1924, the nominee of the Faculty, Mrs. Percy T. Walden, was elected to the Board for a fixed term. Before her marriage, Mrs. Walden was for the year 1902-03 instructor in Economics at Wellesley. As the wife of the Dean of Freshmen at Yale, Mrs. Walden is familiar with college problems. Mrs. Walden's daughter is an undergraduate at Wellesley, which of course quickens her interest in college problems. The six-year term of service of Miss Jessie Claire McDonald as Alumna Trustee closed in June 1926. Miss McDonald has made a very valuable contribution to the College. As principal of the National Cathedral School in Washington, she is constantly preparing students for college. Through the group of her former students in college, she is familiar with the various undergraduate interests and activities and is able to contribute to any problem not only the view of an alumna and trustee but also that of the undergraduate. The Alumnae Association has recently decided that alumnae trustees shall not be eligible for a second term. The number of alumnae who have served on the Board will therefore increase more rapidly as the years go by, and the College will thus have a group of alumnae unusually intelligent and alert to understand future problems as they arise in the growth of the College. Mrs. Dorothy Bridgman Atkinson, 1910, of Minneapolis, was elected to succeed Miss McDonald, and took office at Commencement, 1926.

It is with a continuing sense of loss that the deaths of Dr. Katharine P. Raymond on April 3, 1925, and of Miss Mary Caswell on March 6, 1926, are recorded. Dr. Raymond received her Bachelor's degree from the University of Cincinnati and her medical degree from the University of Michigan. She came to Wellesley in September, 1907, as Resident Physician and Health Officer. At that time only the upper floor of Simpson was used as a hospital. Later, when the whole house was reserved for that purpose, the renovations and alterations were made under her supervision. Throughout the eighteen years of her service, repeated testimony was received from parents and outside physicians of her keen diagnosis and skilful care. It was due to her vigilance that the College came through the influenza epidemics of 1918 and 1919 with miraculously few casualties. A memorial service was held in the College Chapel on Sunday evening, May 24, 1925. The minute adopted by her colleagues of the Academic Council follows:

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Be it Resolved: That we, the Faculty and Staff of Wellesley College, express our poignant sense of loss in the death of Katharine Piatt Raymond, the Resident Physician of the College for the last eighteen years. With pride that is sad but assured, we recall not only the constancy but the distinction of her service. To her was due the reconstruction of Simpson Cottage as an infirmary, with professional equipment of nurses and wards, and the establishment, though with limited means, of a small clinical laboratory. With the devotion of the true and skilled physician she gave herself endlessly to the care of every illness that had in it any hint of gravity. Her diagnosis was generally recognized by consulting physicians as notably, even brilliantly accurate, and it was given with unflinching care for the humblest as for the highest among us. She safeguarded year after year, so far as it was humanly possible to do so, each one of the four or five hundred entering students, by physical examinations made with the help of six expert physicians. Under her wise control the standard of health for the whole College was exceptionally high. Her vigilance again and again prevented the spread of contagion; but when that was impossible, as in the great influenza epidemic of 1918, she handled three hundred ninety-four cases with a skill that led to the recovery of all but one. Her patience in working under adverse conditions, her strength and sagacity in dealing with the most difficult illnesses, her sustaining tenderness for all great pain or sorrow, leave us now a noble and ennobling memory.

But if we would thus record the memory of these, her valiant and arduous years as our physician, we would likewise record our abiding sense of the woman who was never content to live without loveliness. Graciously endowed as she was by nature with beauty of being, she enhanced it by her own creative love for all things of life and health, for color, for light, for music. Hers was a fresh and radiant presence, a self constantly revitalized by vigorous outdoor hours, by keen winds, by birds, by the gardens and flowers that bloomed inevitably wherever Dr. Raymond lived her personal life. In her a strong, sane, beautiful womanhood was richly revealed. In her we have lost one who not only healed but who made us rich by her being. In her, our comrade and our friend, we have lost what will not soon be found again.

It is an added pleasure to report that Dr. Raymond's friends in Cincinnati have presented to the College a picture by Frank

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Duveneck. The picture is given "in loving memory of Katharine Piatt Raymond, Resident Physician at Wellesley College from 1907 to 1925." The picture is called "The Woman with a Vase" and is a study for a decoration. Although it is only a sketch, it is signed in full and "contains elements of the greatness of Duveneck's art, and the paint has that living glow which is characteristic of his work."

In the Appendix will be found the minute adopted by the New England Women's Medical Society. It seems not out of place to include also in the Appendix Miss Bates's poem in appreciation of Dr. Raymond. Dr. Raymond's colleagues on the faculty immediately started a fund for a permanent memorial, probably to be placed in Simpson Hospital when the extension so much needed is constructed.

Miss Mary Caswell was connected with the College almost continuously from the time of her entrance as a special student in 1879 to the time of her death. She had been instructor in Botany for six years before she was made Secretary to the President in 1890, a position which she held until her death in Jerusalem, March 6, 1926. Miss Caswell's devotion to the interests of the College was untiring. She was remarkably resourceful in suggestion and sound in her advice. Neither student nor colleague appealed to her in vain. In a previous report, mention was made of her service as head of the Appointment Bureau. Her interest in students needing financial aid dates back to her first association with Mrs. Durant in the Students' Aid Society, and continued to the day of her death. The President of the College wishes here to record her deep indebtedness to Miss Caswell for a service, expert, disinterested, and far-sighted, for which any financial return is inadequate. A memorial service attended by a large group of alumnæ and other friends was held on Sunday afternoon, May 2, 1926. The minute adopted by Miss Caswell's colleagues on the faculty follows:

Wellesley College has rarely suffered a greater bereavement than in the passing of Mary Caswell. As student, instructor, and Secretary to the President, her connection with the College covered nearly the entire period of its history.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Beautiful in person, keen in mind, charming in address, sanctified in spirit, a New England gentlewoman of the old school, Miss Caswell held a unique place in the life of Wellesley College. Nor were her interests confined within our own boundaries. Progressive in outlook and attitude, she was a true citizen of the world. Amid the routine of daily life her thought reached out constantly to other peoples and other lands, and, as one of her friends has said, her death at Jerusalem was "a fate worthy of her imperishable spirit."

As a counselor, whether to president beset by college problems, or to freshman bewildered by unaccustomed surroundings, her sympathy was unfailing, her help ever generous. Her advice, whether in matters of large policy or in those of personal detail, was always far-seeing, so that her every suggestion was constructive. Our constantly recurring impulse to carry to her office some puzzling question brings to us daily a fresh realization of the value of her untiring service to us, her colleagues. Letters from many alumnae bear witness to the help and inspiration which she gave them in their student days and to the unfailing interest with which she followed them in later years. Moreover, her loss is felt throughout the village of Wellesley. Few members of the College have enjoyed in higher degree the respect and affection of the citizens of the community.

We hold in grateful and happy remembrance her grace, her wit, her fine courtesy, her exquisite precision, her endless patience, her punctilious meeting of obligations, her inimitable literary style, her gift of speech, sometimes stately and sometimes humorous, her keen criticism softened by infinite charity, her quick insight and sympathetic understanding.

We, her friends and colleagues, desire to place on record our abiding thankfulness for the gift made to us and to the College by her presence here for more than forty years.

A fund for a Mary Caswell Memorial Scholarship was begun at Commencement time by alumnae and members of the faculty. Meantime Miss Caswell's two nieces, both graduates of the College, propose to give annually $400 in her memory for the tuition of students.

In the last report, reference was made to the discussion of the tenure of office for members of the Board. This finally culminated in the adoption of an amendment to the Statutes in November 1924. At the same time the term Statute was replaced by By-law as a more accurate word for the rules governing the Board. This amendment puts all members of the Board, except the President and Treasurer, on a term tenure of six years, with the provision that members are eligible for immediate election for a second term, but not for a further term except after an interval of at least one year. It was also provided that in May 1926, or at a later date, the term of service of those members not already on term tenure be decided by lot. This was accordingly done and all members, save the President and Treasurer, are now on fixed terms. Elections will occur annually at the May meeting of the Board, and newly elected members will take office at Commencement of each year. The terms of approximately a sixth of the Board will close in any given year, so that any changes which may occur will not greatly affect the constituency of the Board.

The trustees have discussed at intervals for several years the possibility of appealing to the Legislature for a change in the Act which exempts from taxation only a small part of the real estate owned by the College in the town of Wellesley. This partial exemption dates back to an Act of the Legislature in 1884. The trustees voted in November 1925 to ask the Legislature to put Wellesley College on the same basis as that of other educational institutions of the State. If this appeal were granted, some of the property of the College would undoubtedly be subject to taxation, but not as large an amount as at present. A bill was drawn and a hearing was held in February 1926. It seemed expedient in view of other appeals to withdraw the request, but a renewal of the appeal will probably be made in the near future.

On the recommendation of the Academic Council of the Faculty, approved by the Committee on Educational Policy of the Trustees, it was voted in March 1925 to establish the degree of Master of Science in Hygiene and Physical Education. As soon as a Bachelor's degree was required for admission to the training course for teachers of Hygiene and Physical Education, the question arose whether some recognition other than the certificate now issued should be given for these two years of work beyond the Bachelor's degree. It was agreed that these two years of work as first arranged could not suitably lead to a Master's degree, in view of the large amount of practical and technical courses included. Certain advanced subjects were offered which, if completed in addition to the usual two years' course, might receive this recognition. Accordingly, a plan was presented and approved which makes this M.S. degree the full equivalent of the M.A. degree. This degree was conferred for the first time in June 1926 on five candidates.

The Academic Council of the Faculty has spent much of the time during these two years in discussing the curriculum. No revision has yet received approval. Other questions involving chiefly graduate work have been discussed by the Academic Council at the request of the Committee on Educational Policy of the Trustees. A list of the new courses approved for 1925-26 and 1926-27 will be found in the Appendix.

The trustees have been mindful that the annual cost of the operation of the College has increased steadily and that there is need of increase in salaries and of funds for other current academic purposes,—for example, research, retiring allowances, and sabbatical grants. In view of these facts, the trustees called a meeting of the standing Conference Committee of Faculty and invited the Alumnae Association to appoint three members to meet with them. This Committee of Conference met in June 1925. The whole situation was explained and discussed, and the proposal to increase the annual charges to students from $810 to $1,000 was unanimously approved, with the provision that the increase should not be operative until September 1926, and then only for new students. It was further suggested that the trustees make a provision for scholarship aid by creating competitive scholarships. When the findings of this conference were reported to the trustees, they at once voted that the plan suggested by the Conference Committee to raise the charge for board and tuition to $1,000 to become effective for students entering in September 1926 and thereafter, with the proviso for the competitive scholarships, be approved.

A full list of the changes in the faculty, including new appointments and promotions, will be found in the Appendix. Special mention should be made here of the retirement of Professors Katharine Lee Bates and Adeline B. Hawes in June 1925, and Professor Elizabeth F. Fisher in June 1926. Professor Bates graduated from Wellesley in 1880, and after teaching in secondary schools (among them Dana Hall at Wellesley) was invited to return to the College as instructor in English Literature in 1885; she was made Associate Professor in 1888 and full Professor in 1891. Miss Bates's distinguished career both within and without the College is too well known to need comment here. She has published several volumes of poems and is nationally known as the author of "America the Beautiful," destined to be, if it is not already, the national hymn. She built up a Department of English Literature of which the College is justly proud. She retired under the provisions of the Carnegie Foundation, and was by vote of the trustees made Professor Emeritus. The recognition given Miss Bates at the Semi-Centennial celebration is mentioned elsewhere. Adeline Belle Hawes, B.A. and M.A. Oberlin, came to Wellesley as instructor in Latin in 1888, was promoted to Associate Professor in 1896 and Professor in 1902. Miss Hawes soon made herself felt as a stimulating and scholarly teacher. Her students are constantly testifying to the inspiration of her classroom. She was especially successful in discovering to her audience within and without the classroom the human quality of the classic authors. Miss Hawes retired under the provisions of the Carnegie Foundation and was made Professor Emeritus. Miss Elizabeth F. Fisher, S.B. Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was appointed instructor in Geology in 1894, on the recommendation of William H. Niles, Professor of Geology; she was made Associate Professor in 1906 and Professor of Geology and Geography in 1909. She proved herself an effective teacher, and was much sought after as a popular lecturer in her chosen field. For the past five years Miss Fisher has been much handicapped by ill health. She carried on her teaching with great courage and pluck in spite of increasing illness, and finally retired under the provisions of a disability grant from the Carnegie Foundation in June 1926. She was also made Professor Emeritus.

The College was fortunate in securing the services of Miss Helen Darbishire, Senior Lecturer at Somerville College, Oxford, as Visiting Professor of English Literature for the academic year 1925-26. She carried the courses usually given by Professor Sherwood, who was absent for the year. Miss Darbishire not only made a brilliant success of her teaching, but interested herself in the life of the College. It is hoped that she may be induced to return to Wellesley for at least a semester at some future time. Such appointments promote understanding and good will between Great Britain and the United States, and the trustees should consider making appointments of a similar nature in the future. Another appointment worthy of special mention is the creation of the position of Dean of Freshmen, and the appointment to that office of Miss Frances L. Knapp, Secretary of the Board of Admission since 1916. The President of the College remembers vividly in her work as Dean the advantage she obtained because of the knowledge of students gained from the correspondence with them before admission. Wellesley was the first of the women's colleges to give to an officer as her sole duty all the problems connected with the admission of students. While the position of the Secretary of the Board of Admission was not created until 1913, the work had been carried since 1908 by the corresponding secretary of the Dean, appointed for this special work. Miss Knapp's appointment as Dean of Freshmen makes it possible to correlate the entrance problems with those of the first year in college, and thus to aid in the adjustments necessary in changing from secondary school to college. Miss Knapp's first report as Dean of Freshmen is included with those of the other deans. The relief thus given to the Dean of the College frees Miss Waite for more intimate contact with the upper class students.

In one of the last conferences which the President of the College had with Dr. Raymond, it was agreed that the appointment of an Assistant Physician for the next year should be recommended to the trustees. It was also agreed with the Department of Hygiene and Physical Education that some one should be secured as Assistant Physician who had had the training to enable her to co-operate with this department in the teaching of Hygiene 120. A candidate, therefore, who had had experience in public health work was desired. The College was fortunate in securing Dr. Mary F. DeKruif, B.A. Vassar, 1912, M.D. University of Michigan Medical School 1916. In addition, Dr. DeKruif has had a year's work at Harvard School of Public Health and three years' experience in public health work under the Massachusetts State Department of Public Health. Dr. Raymond knew of Dr. DeKruif's credentials and heartily endorsed them. Although it was believed that Dr. Raymond was on the road to recovery, it was realized that she could not assume the full burden of her work at the beginning of the spring term. Accordingly, Dr. DeKruif was engaged to begin her service on April 7, with the expectation that she would work in co-operation with Dr. Raymond during the latter's convalescence. Unfortunately, that was never possible. Dr. DeKruif was in charge of the hospital for the spring of 1925. The gratitude of the College is due to Dr. Marion Nute of Boston, whose advice was invaluable in the emergency caused by Dr. Raymond's death, and also to Doctors Fredrika Moore and Elizabeth Macnaughton, both of whom rendered valuable assistance in the spring of 1925. All three of these physicians are former students of the College: Dr. Nute was in attendance from 1891 to 1893; Dr. Moore received the B.A. degree in 1898, and Dr. Macnaughton in 1917. Dr. Elizabeth Broyles, B.A. and M.D., University of Nebraska, began her service as Resident Physician in September 1925. Beginning in September 1925, Dr. DeKruif, with the assistance of two of the instructors in the Department of Hygiene, has had charge of the course in personal hygiene prescribed for freshmen.

The evolution of the Bureau of Occupations from the Teachers' Registry of the early years of the College was described in the last President's Report. This Bureau has now become the Personnel Bureau, with no change in purpose, but with greater emphasis upon the study of the individual student and the problems of her adjustment to college life. The personnel work about which so much is being written in these days is no new development. It has always been done in our colleges; in the days of small student groups, it was carried on by the president, assisted later, as numbers increased, by a dean. Now, with the greater number of students, more officers must undertake this work, and the function of a Personnel Bureau is to co-ordinate all these endeavors. All freshmen have personal interviews with the Dean of Freshmen, the Health Officer and the Dean of Residence; the students in the three upper classes with the Dean of the College, the Associate in the Personnel Bureau and the Director of that Bureau. These interviews are in addition to the conferences which the various instructors constantly give to their students. Information of permanent value resulting from these various conferences is collected on one card, filed in the Personnel Bureau and made accessible for future reference. The Personnel Bureau still continues to carry on its function of the placement of alumnae and undergraduates in gainful occupations and of giving vocational information to students. Its policy is determined by the Personnel Board, which consists of the President of the College, the Dean of the College, the Dean of Residence, the Dean of Freshmen, the Resident Physician, the Health Officer, the Recorder, the Professor of Psychology, the Director, and the Associate in the Personnel Bureau.

During the two years covered by this report, 1924-26, important additions to the college plant have been made. The hall of residence to the east of Tower Court, completing the group on that hill, was authorized by vote of the trustees in May 1925. The funds for this building came from the Semi-Centennial Fund and mainly from three sources: from the undergraduates of 1924-25 about $160,000, $100,000 from Mr. Edward Harkness given specifically for this purpose, and $150,000 from Mrs. Elizabeth Severance Prentiss, a former student of the College. These gifts were supplemented from undesignated gifts to the Semi-Centennial Fund. The building will house 126 students, and is to be called Severance Hall in honor of the largest single donor. It will be opened to students at the beginning of the second semester in February 1927. The three halls, Tower Court, Clafin and Severance, make a very beautiful and impressive group.

After long study and patient waiting, the construction of the Botany half of the Botany-Zoology Laboratory was authorized by the Trustees in 1926. The firm of Day & Klauder is the architect for these two buildings, with Harry J. Carlson associate architect in the case of Severance Hall. It is hoped that the Botany Department will be able to move to its new quarters during the spring vacation of 1927. It is proposed to transfer the students now housed in Stone to Severance Hall in February 1927, thus freeing Stone Hall for the thorough renovation which it has sorely needed for some time and which it is expected to complete by September 1927. Some additional equipment has been added to the Power House to provide for these two new buildings.

The building of the Lake Waban Laundry Company was removed from the original site near Alumnæ Hall and a new and larger structure erected on ground leased from the College at the extreme west end of the college campus adjoining Central Street. A beginning has been made on the landscaping of the area between Alumnæ Hall and the lake. It is hoped that here will prove to be the ideal site for an outdoor auditorium.

Improvements of the campus continue. The most evident of these are the new street lamps added this year. The model adopted can be duplicated as funds permit. It is intended to add a few of these lamps each year until the campus is adequately lighted. This will mean that the present overhead wiring for lights, clock system and telephones will be buried and the poles will no longer disfigure the campus.

At the suggestion of members of the Boston Wellesley College Club, the possibility of securing some house in Boston for the use of undergraduates was the subject of discussion and conference during 1924. Fortunately, it was possible to make a very favorable purchase of 131 Commonwealth Avenue. The house was refitted and furnished by a committee of which Mrs. S. B. Pearmain was chairman, and has already proved of great service. The report of the Dean of Residence will give further details of its use. The fees from alumnæ and undergraduates will, it is hoped, pay not only the maintenance charges, but also the interest on the investment.

In accordance with the deed of gift of the founder made in October 1873, the house on Washington Street adjoining the campus, occupied by Mrs. Durant during her life, became the property of the College at her death and by vote of the Trustees was used as a guest house. Miss Lucy J. Freeman, Wellesley 1897, graciously undertook the charge of its decoration. For two or more years the maintenance costs of the house were met by a small group of alumnæ. With the beginning of the campaign for the Semi-Centennial Fund, the maintenance of the house was taken over by the College, and much delightful hospitality was enjoyed under the direction of its various hostesses, Miss Lucy J. Freeman, Mrs. Harriet Scoville Devan, Miss Martha R. Spaulding, Mrs. Sally Groff Conkliñ and Mrs. Alice V. Ward. After the celebration of the Semi-Centennial in 1925, the trustees did not feel justified in continuing the expense, and in January 1926 it became the President's House. The former President's House was named "Oakwoods" in recognition of the Peace Dale home of its donor, ex-President Hazard, and is now the charming home of the Dean of the College.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Among the gifts received during the two years under review, mention should be made of two large blue vases, excellent examples of Sèvres ware from the collection of the Musée de la Manufacture Nationale de Sèvres, and two busts by Houdon, one of Washington and the second of Franklin. These were presented to Wellesley College by the French Government in recognition of the gifts for relief and for the overseas unit maintained in France by the College during the war. The presentation was made by President Doumergue at the Élysée Palais on April 17, 1925, and accepted on behalf of the College by Mr. Edwin Farnham Greene, President of the Board of Trustees. The arrangements for the presentation were made by Mlle. Elisabeth Clévenot, Visiting Lecturer in French 1921-1923. The vases now stand in the living room of Tower Court, and the two busts at the entrance to the History Room in the Library.

In June 1926, two members of the class of 1896 offered in memory of their mothers the money for a bridge connecting the President's House with the campus. This bridge will be erected in the spring of 1927.

At a later time, a full report of the Semi-Centennial Fund will be made, and no mention of special gifts to this Fund will be recorded here.

The outstanding event of these two years is, of course, the celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary on May 29, 1925. The academic exercises were held in the Chapel in the morning, followed by a luncheon with a few brief speeches. All the buildings were open for inspection during the afternoon; various outdoor games were also played on the campus. The Eta of Massachusetts Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa gave a dinner in the evening. Three performances of "The Winged Soul," the Semi-Centennial pageant, were given; the first and second on the evenings of May 28 and 29 were for the Semi-Centennial guests; the third, on May 30, was primarily for the undergraduates and their guests and also for the residents of the village.

The address of the morning, given by President Angell of Yale University, was a notable one, and the greetings of President Lowell and President Woolley were unusually happy. The program of the morning exercises will be found in full in the Appendix. A full report of these exercises, including the addresses, was published in the Wellesley Alumnae Magazine for June 1925.

For the second time in the history of the College, honorary degrees were conferred. The policy of granting honorary degrees had been thoroughly discussed by the trustees, and in deciding to award them at the Semi-Centennial, the trustees passed the following votes:

Resolved, that Wellesley College, not abandoning but continuing its conservative policy of granting only a small number of honorary degrees at long intervals, shall make it a part of the celebration of its first half-century in May or June 1925 to confer a few such degrees.

Resolved, that the recipients of these degrees on the occasion of the Semi-Centennial shall be limited to those who have been associated with the work of Wellesley College.

In accordance with these votes, the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon the two ex-Presidents of the College and upon three alumnae as follows: Julia J. Irvine, "fourth President of Wellesley College, Greek scholar, inspiring teacher, who, at the call of duty, left the classroom to carry the tasks of the President's office with rare insight and a gallant and courageous spirit"; Caroline Hazard, "whose administration as fifth President of Wellesley College was marked by high endeavor and visible achievement, a stranger in 1899, today a member of the Board of Trustees, a generous friend, honored and acclaimed by faculty, alumnae and her fellow trustees"; Annie Jump Cannon, "author of the Henry Draper Catalogue and responsible for the Harvard Classification of stellar spectra, which is accepted as the standard by astronomers of all countries, the foremost woman astronomer in the United States, known and honored in other lands"; Helen Barrett Montgomery, "who adds to a wise and brilliant Christian leadership the achievement of a scholar in the Centenary translation of the New Testament from the Greek text"; Katharine Lee Bates, "for forty years the moving force in one of the strongest departments of the College, cherished in the hearts of all alumnae, scholar, poet and author of the greatest of our national hymns."

On this occasion, the windows in the chancel of the Chapel were presented by the Alumnae Association as a memorial to the founders of the College. The theme of the design is Love and Service. These windows, three in number, the last two completed in May 1926, are from the studio of Reynolds, Francis and Rohnstock, and are among the finest examples of their medieval glass.

The Semi-Centennial Pageant, "The Winged Soul," was the work of Marie Warren Potter of the class of 1907, and was staged by Mr. Dugald Stuart Walker. The limitations of this report do not permit more than a brief mention of the noble conception of the theme and the beauty of color and design in its production.

The College may justly take pride in the genuine appreciation of the work and academic standing of Wellesley as shown by the large number and the distinction of the delegates sent by institutions and learned societies to the celebration. Altogether the trustees may feel that the occasion was a worthy commemoration of the achievements of the first fifty years of Wellesley College.

The celebration of the Semi-Centennial is naturally a time of reminiscence. While the limitations of an official report will not permit an exhaustive historical sketch, we must recall the pioneer days of Ada L. Howard, the first President, co-worker with the founders; the brilliant leadership of Alice E. Freeman, bringing to the attention of the world a young and vigorous institution; the noble service of Helen A. Shafer, who literally gave her life to strengthening the foundations and to building up the organization of the College, both academically and administratively; the gallant service of Mrs. Julia Josephine Irvine, who met the difficult problems (academic and financial) of the new curriculum adopted during the last years of President Shafer's term of service; the distinguished service of Caroline Hazard, covering a longer period than any of her predecessors, during whose eleven years the College grew in numbers, in endowment and in buildings.

Wellesley owes a tremendous debt to its founders not only for the gift of a beautiful, perhaps the most beautiful campus of any American college, but also for the spirit with which the foundation was established. The founder expressly stipulated that no picture or bust of him should ever be placed in the College. This selfless devotion of Mr. and Mrs. Durant inspired that first faculty, who undertook to develop and carry on the watchwords of the founder—thoroughness of scholarship, a wholesome and healthful life among beautiful surroundings, both founded upon an intelligent spiritual life. The College should never forget the progressive and far-sighted policy of the founder. Language and literature, art and music he included in the curriculum; he advocated the thorough study of English, which in 1875 was not greatly emphasized in college curricula; he insisted upon a thoroughgoing treatment of the sciences. Wellesley was undoubtedly the first college for women offering individual laboratory work to its students, and perhaps offered this work earlier than any other institution for men or women with the exception of Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The President of the College would like here to record also a tribute to Mrs. Durant. Mrs. Durant seconded every effort of Mr. Durant, and, after his death in 1881, she devoted her life to the interests of the College. She met the inevitable changes with unremitting loyalty. As was to be expected, she opposed some of them, but, a policy once adopted, she accepted it and continued to give to the College without stint of time and money. Those who shared it will never forget her gracious hospitality, her gratitude for even the smallest service. Many of us have a tender memory of notes signed "Your obliged friend." If there is lasting quality in the contributions of the present Wellesley staff, it is primarily due to that selfless devotion of the founders nobly continued by a long line of presidents, faculty and trustees.

I cannot close this report without expressing the deep appreciation I feel for the cordial co-operation which the President receives from trustees, from the whole official staff, and from the alumnæ of the College.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

JULY 1, 1925

To the President of Wellesley College:—

I have the honor to submit the following report for the year closing July 1, 1925. During the academic year 1924-25, 243 courses were actually given by the various departments, aggregating 536½ hours per week, not including hours duplicated because of additional sections of the same course. These 243 courses include only one course given by the department of Hygiene, namely the lecture course prescribed for freshmen. The distribution of these courses in the various departments will be given in the appendix. The following table shows the relative amount of instruction given by the various departments in the past five years. The unit of instruction used is the instruction of one student, one hour a week for one academic year.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

In June 1925, 351 students received the degree of Bachelor of Arts. This makes the total number of Bachelor's degrees conferred by the College 8,634. The academic requirement for this degree is the satisfactory completion of fifty-nine hours of class work. For the completion of her work toward this degree every student must show that she has carried successfully nine hours in each of two departments, or twelve hours in one department and six in another.

The following table shows the number of students in the class of 1925 who in fulfillment of the above requirement completed nine or more hours in the various departments.

Of these 351 graduates, 17 won the rank of Durant Honor Scholars, and 60 the rank of Wellesley College Scholars.

This class of 1925 does not show as high a grade of scholarship as we should expect, and our attention is again directed to a need of stimulating the student to do her best work in spite of the many distractions which she has from activities other than the academic. The fact that we had only 17 students of the highest rank of scholarship and only 4 carrying Special Honors intensifies the problem before us of finding whether the College fails to give the young seeker of learning the best courses to stimulate her to scholarly work, perhaps by exacting too large a proportion of required subjects or by failure to consider special aptitudes; or whether the failure lies with the young person of the present day who is only filling in four years of attendance at college for what may be gained in social contacts, rather than for the intellectual opportunities, or drifting in for lack of any fixed purpose, following the general current. The Academic Council has discussed the curriculum during many meetings, and the majority are not ready to make any notable change in the fixed requirements of the course.

The candidates for Special Honors who have the opportunity of three hours of directed study aside from the classroom find the result satisfactory, but as this three hours of directed work is their only freedom from the requirements made of all students and as class attendance is expected of them in all courses, with a more searching examination at the end of the course, the rewards of greater flexibility in a chosen course have not been sufficiently tempting to draw many from the conventional course. More special inducements must be sought. We believe that we have a class of students who will respond to the right stimulus and we hope to give more time to this class.

At the other end of the scale are those who show too little aptitude for college work to be allowed to continue. The Committee on Defective Scholarship has adopted a general policy approved by the Academic Council of excluding such students. In general, no student may remain in college who is not of diploma grade at the beginning of her fourth year. Furthermore, students who show little aptitude for college work in their first year have definite terms given them, and a failure to meet these terms excludes them from college by the end of the second year. By close scrutiny of credentials of entering students, not only their examination reports but their character records, by a rigorous selection in the first two years of college life based on academic and social considerations, and by stimulating the able student to live up to her capabilities, we are striving to raise the standing of the student body and promote an atmosphere of scholarly interest.

Of the 51 students dropped during the year 1924-25 in accordance with this policy, 12 were third-year students, 24 second-year students, and 15 first-year students.

The total number of students registered November 1924, was 1,583, classified as follows:—

The number of schools here reported shows a decrease from last year's report, as we are now adopting the plan of counting only the last schools from which a student was admitted, rather than all the schools she has attended. As some of our students have led a bird-of-passage life, the number of schools to an individual has made a larger total than seems fairly to represent their preparation.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

Every student entering Wellesley must present fifteen units for admission. Of these units eleven are prescribed as follows:—

Three units in English
Four units in Latin
Three units in Mathematics
One unit in History

Of the remaining four units, three must be offered in some foreign language other than Latin, and a fourth unit in either Biology, Botany, Chemistry, Physics, Physical Geography, Zoology, Harmony, History, or Solid Geometry with Trigonometry; or two units in each of two languages, French, German, Spanish, Greek, Italian; or two units in one language with two separate units in Biology, Botany, Chemistry, Physics, Physical Geography, Zoology, Harmony, History, or Solid Geometry with Trigonometry. Four units may also be offered in French or German. If a second unit in History is offered for an elective subject, one unit should be Ancient History. The 405 new freshmen admitted fulfilled the requirement as follows:—

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

One hundred and forty-two students admitted without conditions offered credentials which aggregated more than the fifteen units prescribed for admission. One foreign student offered four units of Japanese in place of the Latin requirement. The largest number of units accepted from any candidate was 20. Of the 405 new students in this year's freshman class, 401 were admitted without conditions, or 99 per cent; and of the four admitted with conditions, all were conditioned in one subject only and one in but one unit.

Apprehensions that increasing the number of subjects that might be offered for admission within the required 15 units would lead to the offering of many vocational subjects have not so far been justified. Only one student each of the past two years has offered Civics; three, Biblical History; and nine, Physical Geography. The conventional subjects: Languages, Sciences, Mathematics, and History, continue to make up nearly all of the 15 points of admission. A foreign language, either classical or modern, must be carried in the first year of college, and many freshmen take two languages; so that of the 405 freshmen in this year's report there are 528 elections of Language, the largest election being in the Modern Languages with 420, and French leading with 304.

Two sciences are also required during the four years. One must be taken in the first year, so that we have 409 Science elections. A smaller proportion of the 405 students take two sciences than those choosing two languages. Of the 236 entering with one or two points of History, it is rather noteworthy that there were only 64 freshmen electing History. This small election in the first year is doubtless due to the presence of the large number of required subjects, since the elections of History in later years, as shown in the first table of the report, are increased for 1924-25.

The fluctuations in the elections of the last four years are not striking, except in the subject of History, as noted. The change in our requirements of two sciences in college, of the three-point entrance requirement in Latin in place of the four-point, and the wider range of interests that may be covered by the student in her preparation are all points to keep in mind in connection with the changes in subjects that may be noted later. At present we have an insufficient amount of material, so that it would not be safe to generalize.

Respectfully submitted,

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

JULY 1, 1926

To the President of Wellesley College:—

I have the honor to submit the following report for the year closing July 1, 1926. During the academic year 1925-26, 253 courses were actually given by the various departments, aggregating 540½ hours per week, not including hours duplicated because of additional sections of the same course. These 253 courses include only one course given by the Department of Hygiene, namely the lecture course prescribed for freshmen. The distribution of these courses in the various departments will be given in the appendix. The following table shows the relative amount of instruction given by the various departments in the past five years. The unit of instruction used is the instruction of one student, one hour a week for one academic year.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

In June 1926, 340 students received the degree of Bachelor of Arts. This makes the total number of Bachelor's degrees conferred by the College 8,974. The academic requirement for this degree is the satisfactory completion of sixty hours of class work. For the completion of her work toward this degree every student must show that she has carried successfully nine hours in each of two departments, or twelve hours in one department and six in a second department, or twelve hours in one department and six in allied courses.

The following table shows the number of students in the class of 1926 who in fulfillment of the above requirement completed nine or more hours in the various departments.

English Literature . . . . .	154	Mathematics . . . . .	19
History . . . . .	96	Chemistry . . . . .	17

Botany . . . . .	23	Geology . . . . .	3

Of these 340 graduates, 15 won the rank of Durant Honor Scholars, and 36 the rank of Wellesley College Honor Scholars.

It was noted in the report of 1925 and must be noted again that there is not so large a number of students of Durant and Wellesley College standing, and not so large a number of students working for honors in special subjects as might be expected in a class of 340. This situation may be accounted for by increasing requirements of the departments, by more rigid grading of reports, or by the growing indifference of the student who will not do more than secure a passing grade or low credit in required subjects which do not interest her. Wellesley College has a large proportion of absolute requirements without alternative choice in the 60 hours to be completed for the degree—22½ to 25½ hours. It is, perhaps, not surprising that as individualism increases in the world at large, the young student should grow less acquiescent in a system of education imposed rather than elected.

In the year 1925-26, six seniors undertook the work of honors in special subjects. Three gave up the plan during the year for reasons of health or difficulties beyond their control, and three carried through the work successfully: one in French Literature, and two in Economics. In the spring of 1926, twelve seniors and four juniors applied for the work of honors in special subjects for 1926-27, and we have fair hope that they may carry through their plan successfully. Students who are equal to the concentrated work in a definite field, especially those who avail themselves of three hours of directed work outside of the classroom in close relation with the instructor in charge, have found the opportunities satisfying and have made a promising beginning toward graduate work, or have at least a sense of scholarly endeavor not always gained in the regular courses. We recognize, however, that the plan for honors students is for the specially scholarly student, and we do not expect large numbers.

An experiment for concentrated work in French was launched in the spring of 1926, when five students completing their sophomore year availed themselves of the opportunity given by the University of Delaware to join their group for the junior year in France, studying intensively all subjects in the French language, and speaking French exclusively. Only such students as could be recommended by the department of French, the Physician, and the Dean were allowed to go; of the success of the plan we shall have more to say in our next report. Of our graduating class: three joined the Delaware group in France, and two were awarded scholarships by the French Government in Lyons and Bordeaux. A member of the graduating class was awarded the Robert Brookings Scholarship for work in Economics in Washington. This interest and attainment is gratifying testimony of the stimulating and thorough work done during the college course.

The total number of students registered November 1925 was 1,599, classified as follows:—

The applicants from other colleges to complete their course at Wellesley are ever more numerous, and of some 200 applying every year about one-half actually present their complete credentials. Only 30 to 40 places are kept for such applicants, and the selection is highly competitive. In 1924 we admitted 25; in 1925, 35; and in 1926, 40. Of these students from other institutions, the foreign students whom the College has accepted with scholarships are a stimulating addition to the student body, earnest, thorough, and faithful in their work. The two sisters from Tiflis from the Russian Higher Schools and the Greek student from the American College for Girls in Athens, though arriving after the year began in 1925, asked for no special concessions, and met their examinations creditably.

The policy of dropping those members of the College who are unfit to carry a college course, or too easily distracted from academic interests, was stated in last year's report, and in accordance with that policy, 53 were dropped this last year. A special committee of the Faculty notes the work of students falling below the standard as carefully as the work of honor students is watched by another committee, so that the trust of guarding a college established and maintained for promoting intellectual interests and calling for gifts to that end may be fully justified.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF FRESHMEN

---

To the President of Wellesley College:—

I have the honor to submit a report of the freshman class for the year closing July 1, 1926.

The class entering Wellesley College in September, 1925, numbered 456 students, of whom 15 were former students returning to Wellesley and 441 were new students. The distribution of these new students according to the character of the schools in which they received their preparation is as follows:—

Preparation entirely in public schools . . . . .	190
Preparation entirely in private schools . . . . .	137
Preparation partly in public and partly in private schools . .	114
Number of schools in which preparation was completed . .	228
High schools . . . . .	114
Private schools. . . . .	110
Colleges . . . . .	4
Schools in New England . . . . .	68
Schools outside New England . . . . .	160

The following table indicates the method of admission used by the 441 new freshmen:—

New Plan . . . . .	242
Old Plan (C. E. E. B. examinations) . . . . .	142
Old Plan (Regents examinations) . . . . .	53
Old Plan (C. E. E. B. with other college examinations) . .	4
Barnard . . . . .	1
Bryn Mawr . . . . .	3

In the spring of 1924 a new plan of entrance subjects was approved by the Faculty and Trustees of the College to go into effect for the class entering Wellesley in 1925. The new arrangement of entrance subjects was made largely in recognition of the development of the three-year Junior High School. Since the three-year Senior High School normally allows for the completion of twelve units, the new plan of entrance subjects makes provision for three unrestricted units which can be covered by work completed in the Junior High School. The plan is as follows:—

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF FRESHMEN

For admission to Wellesley College a candidate must present fifteen units of secondary school studies chosen according to the following plan:

Group I.	Prescribed subjects . . . . .	10 units
	English . . . . .	3
	Mathematics . . . . .	3
	Algebra . . . . .	2
	Plane Geometry . . . . .	1
	Latin . . . . .	3
	History . . . . .	1
Group II.	Restricted Electives . . . . .	2 units
	Foreign language. . . . .	2
	or
	Science . . . . .	2
	or
	Science 1 and a second History 1
Group III.	Unrestricted Electives . . . . .	3 units

It is to be noted that the important changes which the new arrangement allows are as follows:—

1. Reduction of the prescribed units in Latin from 4 to 3.
2. Greater scope in the selection in the restricted elective group.
3. Provision for three unrestricted electives.

Attention should be called to the fact that the unrestricted electives can be used without limitation only by candidates who enter by the New Plan, in which four comprehensive examinations are considered in connection with the school records. Candidates for admission by the Old Plan of examination in all subjects must choose in the free elective group subjects in which the entrance examinations are regularly offered.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

The 441 freshmen admitted as new students in 1925 offered the following subjects in Groups II and III:—

Language
French	2 units	71

German	2 units	10

It is to be noted that only three of the accepted candidates in 1925 offered subjects in the group of unlimited electives which were not acceptable under the former plan of entrance subjects. There was also no apparent change in the tendency to offer more units of modern language than the requirements necessitate. The principal effect of the change in the first year of its operation was in the number of candidates who offered three units of

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF FRESHMEN

Latin instead of four. Fifty-eight of the candidates accepted entered with three units of Latin.

The year 1925 is notable also in that no members of the freshman class were admitted with entrance conditions.

The following table shows the subjects elected in the first year in college by new members of the freshman classes in the last four years:—

We are glad to remark that in this unusually large freshman class only nine first-year students were dropped for unsatisfactory work. The percentage of honor students in the class was a little larger than for the past four years. Seventy-seven members of the class, or 16.9%, received honorable mention for excellent work in the first year.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF RESIDENCE

JULY 1, 1924-JULY 1, 1926

To the President of Wellesley College:—

I have the honor of presenting the following report of the Department of Residence for the two years ending June 30, 1926.

These years have been comparatively uneventful from the standpoint of this department. No additions to the halls of residence have been made, and the list for both campus and village remains practically the same. There has been a slight decrease in the number of private houses on the so-called "approved list."

The figures of the November statement of 1924 need an explanation, since they show a loss of 36 in the campus total, all but four of the campus houses having a slight decrease in numbers.

In the fall of 1923 the large numbers of the College compelled the use of every possible corner and the doubling of every room of decent size. In September 1924, the College was held to a more normal size, and it was possible to reduce the undesirable crowding to some extent, though too many rooms were still made double for the best standards of work and living conditions.

This November statement shows also a loss in the number of students in college houses in the village, and a corresponding increase in private houses, but this is explained by the giving up of Lovewell House.

In June 1924, it seemed advisable for various reasons to relinquish Elms, since it was not absolutely needed for the housing of village students. At the end of the year 1924-25, however, the situation was slightly changed, and, since it was possible again to lease the house, in September 1925, it was added to the list once more, Mrs. Maynard, previously for a number of years at Townsend House, taking its head. The house has been used for the year 1925-26 entirely for freshmen, and has been tributary for meals to Eliot House.

An interesting experiment in connection with the self-help students has been tried for the year 1925-26. The most profitable method of earning money has been for some years the opportunity offered at Eliot to make a substantial decrease in the cost of table-board by serving as waitress in the Eliot dining-room, and each fall sixteen or seventeen students avail themselves of this means of self-help. These students have heretofore found lodgings as best they might in small and inexpensive village houses, and it has been felt for some time that they should be gathered together so that those especially interested in them might be able to know whether they were overtaxing themselves by their various enterprises. During the summer of 1925 it was found that Townsend could be spared from the regular list of houses for freshman use, and it was set aside at special rates for this particular group of students. Miss Mary Hale Young of the class of 1884, who has more than once come to the aid of the Dean of Residence in emergency, returned to mother the house. The experiment has been a successful one. We believe that the students have been more comfortably housed and better cared for under a roof of our own, and that there is less danger of their overdoing than when they were scattered without particular oversight among different houses. It is proposed to continue the same arrangement for another year.

The year 1925-26 is also noteworthy in being the first in a long term of years to see freshmen on the campus. When the last withdrawals of the summer of 1925 came in, it was found that after all the members of the three upper classes were roomed there was still space for a considerable group of freshmen at Fiske, and that a smaller group of freshmen, who for various reasons should be spared the long walk to and from the village, could be placed at Norumbega. We should like to think that this means the beginning of the withdrawal from the village, but it is probable that the upper-class total will be slightly larger in September 1926, and that we cannot expect any material change until the completion of Severance Hall.

REPORT OF THE DEAN OF RESIDENCE

Two changes of name should be noted—from the Barn to Dower House; from Claflin Annex to Crawford House.

It had been suggested to Mrs. Hassett, when she took charge of the Barn in its remodelled state, that her first household should be the ones to choose its name. There were many discussions on the subject, but Mrs. Hassett reported that it seemed to her family good fun to keep the old name, full of associations to many generations of college students. As the year progressed, certain practical difficulties arose. Boston shopkeepers found the address for packages hard to comprehend. Express bundles got left at the barn which was a barn, and conversely some of the material for the Department of Grounds was delivered at the Barn which was a dormitory. So Mrs. Hassett again reported at the end of the year that with some regret her family asked for a change. Various names were suggested during the summer. It was proposed to add Pines or Hemlocks to our grove of Maples, Elms, and Birches, but the President chose finally the name of Dower House in recognition of the fact that Mrs. Durant had claimed that part of the campus on which the Barn and Homestead stand "by right of dower." If in the future the "orchard group" ever comes into being, this name can be transferred from this temporary house to some more stately structure, worthier to bear so significant a name.

Claflin Annex, having by its name for a year established its relation to its protecting house, became Crawford House in honor of Mr. Leander Crawford, first Superintendent and staunch friend of the College, for whose use it was originally built.

The most significant development in connection with the Department of Residence during these two years has been the opening of the Wellesley Club House at 131 Commonwealth Avenue in November 1925. This step was taken in recognition of a genuine need on the part of many students living at a distance for a lodging in Boston, where, properly chaperoned, they might spend the night after some engagement in town, enjoying the same privilege as those students whose relatives were conveniently located in the neighborhood.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

A movement toward this end had been started some years earlier by members of the class of 1892 in connection with the Boston Wellesley Club. But the difficulty of obtaining a house in a suitable locality and of financing the scheme seemed at that time prohibitive, and the matter was temporarily dropped. Only temporarily, however. The demand of the students for some suitable arrangement persisted; the makeshift plans proved thoroughly unsatisfactory, and certain Boston alumnae continued their efforts to find some house which could be recommended to the trustees for their consideration. Through the perseverance of Mrs. Sylvia Goulston Dreyfus of the class of 1914, the house at 131 Commonwealth Avenue was discovered, admirably adapted in location and arrangement for college use. Mrs. Dreyfus and her group induced members of the Board of Trustees to inspect the house, secured the support of several, notably Mr. Davenport and Mr. Ogden, as well as the Treasurer of the College, and after much deliberation as to ways and means the property was bought and a sum appropriated for its equipment.

Even as the College owes the house itself to Mrs. Dreyfus, so it owes its attractive furnishing to Mrs. Pearmain of the Board of Trustees, who gave to it her thought and time and strength for many weeks.

A third generous contributor to the scheme was Mrs. Laura Parker Furber of the class of 1887, who became its director for the first year, and to whose wise management the success of the opening year was largely due. In June 1925, Mrs. Furber resigned the position in Boston to become Head of Leighton House at Wellesley, and Mrs. Elizabeth C. Bronson, assistant to Miss McGregor at Tower Court, was appointed to succeed her, and has carried on the work with understanding and sympathy.

While the use of the town house by undergraduates is its most conspicuous service, it has furnished a convenient center for the Boston Wellesley Club, has been used for many of its meetings, and has also been much used by individuals for the entertainment of personal guests. It is hoped and believed that it will increasingly serve the College in the future in ways not yet developed, while continuing to minister to the undergraduate body in connection with legitimate social pleasures. The house is administered in close connection with the office of the Dean of Residence, who is at present chairman of the House Committee, the other members being appointed by the Boston Wellesley Club from its own number. The Director of the Club House attends the meetings of the Heads of Houses, and is considered a member of that body.

The personnel of the Heads of Houses has been little changed. In September 1924, Miss Buell came back to her own position at Pomeroy after her year's leave of absence, and Mrs. Belle Morgan Wardwell took the headship of Leighton House, adding to her work the most important task of supervising Alumnae Hall.

Miss Katharine Harris, Head of Little House, asked leave of absence for the year 1924-25, returning in September 1925, to her position at Little House, held during her absence by Miss Stallknecht. In September 1925, Miss Stallknecht succeeded at Clinton House Miss Loomis, who was transferred to Fiske.

In June 1925, Mrs. Frances R. Meaker felt constrained to resign her post as Head of Beebe Hall, and Mrs. Wardwell came back to the Quadrangle.

In June 1925, also, Mrs. Lucy P. Bell was obliged to give up the headship of Webb in order to take a post nearer her family in Virginia. Her place was to have been filled by Mrs. Sarah Groff Conklin of the class of 1889, but a serious illness in the summer compelled Mrs. Conklin to give up this plan. Mrs. Alice V. Ward, set free by the giving up of the Guest House from her duties as college hostess, opened Webb in September and carried it on until Miss Marion F. E. Cooke, Wellesley, 1901, could readjust her plans in order to become its permanent head.

It is perhaps only right to include in this report some mention of two conferences held in Boston upon social questions of common interest to the colleges of the vicinity. The first of these meetings was held at the Wellesley Club House, and to it came representatives from Radcliffe, Simmons, Jackson, and Boston University. This was followed by a meeting at Simmons of the same group, with the addition of the Dean of Wheaton. Up to this point the meetings have been entirely informal, and there has been no definite organization. It is believed that they have already had some influence for good. It is intended to continue them, and it is hoped that they may accomplish something definitely worth while in bettering the conditions of the social events for college students in and about Boston.

I cannot close my report without expressing again my appreciation of the loyal co-operation of the members of my staff. I wish also to express to the President of the College in their name the<sup>3</sup>earnest desire of all members of this department to serve the College to the full extent of our ability.

Respectfully submitted,

EDITH SOUTHER TUFTS,

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON GRADUATE INSTRUCTION, JULY 1, 1926

To the President of Wellesley College:—

I have the honor to submit the following report of the Committee on Graduate Instruction for the year ending June 30, 1926.

During the academic year 1925-26 there were 52 graduate students enrolled, 5 working in absentia and 47 in residence. Of these, 13 received the degree of Master of Arts, and 5 received the degree of Master of Science in Hygiene and Physical Education, the degree awarded for the first time this year.

The major subjects of the 13 students who received the Master of Arts degree were distributed as follows:—

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

The 50 graduate students working for a degree received their Bachelor's degrees as follows:—

From Wellesley . . . . .	17
From other women's colleges . . . . .	14
From co-educational institutions . . . . .	14
From foreign universities . . . . .	5
Total . . . . .	50

One of the students had previously received her Master's degree, and another held a Ph.D.

The regular work of the Committee included the consideration of the credentials of candidates for admission; the general supervision of the work of graduate students, involving this year, among other duties, the adjustment of students' plans to the revised legislation which reduced the requirements for the Master's degree from 15 hours to 12 hours and provided, in general, for a final examination in the work of the major and minor subjects; the consideration of the credentials of applicants for the Alice Freeman Palmer Fellowship; and the awarding of graduate scholarships.

Of the 47 students in residence:

20 held staff appointments
13 were awarded graduate scholarships
6 full-time scholarships
7 for part-time work
4 held special scholarships awarded to foreign students
2 held scholarships awarded by the Department of Hygiene

In addition, the Committee devoted considerable time to discussion of the question whether the Ph.D. degree should be offered at Wellesley, a question referred to the Committee by the President of the College and by the Academic Council as the result of a letter from Professor George Herbert Palmer, a member of the Committee on Educational Policy of the Board of Trustees. After considerable discussion and a conference with the Trustees' Committee, the Committee on Graduate Instruction reported to the Academic Council its opinion that "until such time as Wellesley College can provide at least as adequately for its graduate work as it at present provides for its undergraduate work, without any subtraction from the latter of attention or funds . . . the College should not try to offer a Ph.D. degree.”

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

I have the honor to present the following report of the administration of the Library for the year ending June 30, 1925.

During the year we have added to the Library 3,513 bound volumes, 2,514 by purchase, 999 by gift, the total number now accessioned being 107,595. To this number should be added the separately accessioned Plimpton Collection, 962 volumes; the English Poetry Collection, 2,100 volumes; the Ruskin Collection, 446 volumes (besides 210 pamphlets); the Brooks Room Collection, 1,180 volumes,—making a total of 112,283 volumes. This number does not include any but the most important unbound material in the general collection.

Members of the faculty, students, alumnæ, and other friends of the College have shown their usual generosity in giving to the Library, and it is impossible to acknowledge all these gifts in detail; we can only mention some of the more notable acquisitions. Among the gifts from alumnæ were the following: The Holy Experiment, a handsome volume of reproductions of mural paintings in the State Capitol at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, by Violet Oakley, from Mrs. Helen Knowles Bonnell, '07, and Mr. Bonnell; thirty-seven volumes of works dealing with mathematics and astronomy from the library of the late Professor Asaph Hall, the gift of Mrs. Lydia Hyde Hall, '07; Spanish Architecture in Mexico, ten volumes of plates, a gift to the Art Library from Mrs. Alice Upton Pearmain, '83. To the same library, Paoletti, L'architettura e la Scultura del Rinasciente in Venezia, eight volumes, from Mrs. Eliza Newkirk Rogers, '00, and Mrs. Ruth Henderson Peace, '12. A much appreciated addition to the English Poetry Collection was The Works of Ben Jonson, Vol. 1, 1640, from Miss Charlotte Dana Lyman, '09, and her brother, Mr. Richard Dana Lyman. This copy was formerly owned by Richard Henry Dana, Jr., whose autograph it bears. Another addition to the valuable books in the Treasure Room was a sixteenth-century manuscript of the Koran, hand-illuminated, presented to the Library by Miss Rachel Rathbun, '20.

From Miss Caroline Hazard who, during her long connection with the College as president and member of the Board of Trustees, has often shown her interest in the Library, we received in addition to her own work published during the year, the edition de luxe of the Birds of California by W. L. Dawson, a handsomely illustrated work in four volumes.

Besides many single volumes presented by members of the faculty, we received from Dean Waite and Miss Louise Waite 28 volumes; from Professor Snow, 10 volumes; from Professor Case, 11 volumes. Professor Bushee sent us from Spain eight numbers of Charles Dickens' All the Year Round, in the original parts.

Mr. John C. Lee, who has also been very generous to the Library in former years, this year added the Transactions of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, 53 volumes, to the Library; Mr. G. H. Davenport and Mr. C. H. Guye added to former gifts 21 volumes and 42 volumes, respectively. The Brooks Room received a gift of the Hillcrest edition of Mark Twain's Works, 25 volumes, from a member of the class of 1925, in memory of her father.

To these have been added the usual and much appreciated gifts from other colleges, from the federal and state governments, from our representatives in Congress, and from various institutions and philanthropic and educational foundations.

We have expended during the year, for the purchase of books, $6,590.35; for periodical subscriptions, $2,558.13; for binding and repairs, $1,339.83; a total of $10,488.31. This sum is derived from the income of funds and gifts as follows: Horsford fund (and fund for current expenses), $8,731.49; Abbott fund, $40.46; Hintermeister fund, $21.25; Jewett fund, $59.18; Kirk fund, $286.77; Morse fund, $74.97; Sanborn fund, $221.56; Shafer fund, $112.46; Sweet fund, $190.53; Wenckebach fund, $ .85; Fines, $543.95; Department Fees, $154.57; gifts, $50.27.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

Among the important purchases of the year were the following: Encyclopädie der mathematischen Wissenschaften, 11 vols.; Enciclopedia universal ilustrada, 42 vols.; Die Miniaturen des Gero Codex; Codex Aureus der Bayerisch Staatsbibliothek in München, Vol. 6 (text); Briquet, Les filigranes, 4 vols.; Engler, Die Pflanzenwelt Afrikas; Histoire littéraire de la France, Vols. 28-35, continuing the set already in the Library.

The cataloguing of current accessions reaches a total of 4,370 volumes, including 3,255 books (representing 2,131 titles) and 1,115 periodicals and continuations.

A total of 2,060 volumes were recatalogued, including 1,453 books and 607 periodicals and continuations. In addition to this, several long sets were recatalogued for which many analytic cards were made, and a good many reference cards were copied; so that the above figures hardly represent the amount of work really accomplished.

The cataloguing of the Ruskin Collection was completed during the year. At the time the collection was presented to the Library, a check list was made of the books, but the cataloguing was necessarily deferred.

The circulation of books during the year is shown by the following table:—

Total number of books circulated . . . . .	43,380
Reserved books circulated . . . . .	13,726
Charged to students (including reserved books) . . . .	23,875
Charged to members of the faculty . . . . .	5,731
Charged to alumnae and others . . . . .	48

Professor Jackson's work in preparing the catalogue of the Plimpton Collection brought to light many interesting things during the year. Among them was a manuscript commentary on Dante, written early in the fifteenth century or possibly earlier, which presented so many points of interest that the manuscript was photographed and the reproduction taken to Italy by Professor Jackson for further research during her sabbatical year. The completion of this catalogue will make available for scholars one of the most important collections of early Italian Romances in existence as well as a notable collection of editions of Italian authors of the Renaissance.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

Photostat reproductions of the two valuable charters owned by the Library were also made for purposes of study; the charter given by Otto III to a monastery in Rome in 996, and the one signed by Charles V in 1521, granting mineral rights in his dominions to one of his subjects.

This year, in accordance with the wish of Professor Palmer that the English Poetry Collection should be in a room where students might freely enter, and also in accordance with a desire of long standing on the part of the Library to make the contents of the Treasure Room more accessible, arrangements were made by which the room has been open for two hours every afternoon except Saturday and Sunday. With the present staff, it is not possible to have it open all day, and it is a question whether it is not a more valued privilege when it is open only a limited time. That it is valued is evidenced by the expressions of pleasure by students and others who come to spend a few moments or an hour inspecting the books and manuscripts. Instructors also send their students to consult early editions of the authors they are studying, and thus the collection is becoming a recognized part of the Library equipment.

During the year, the case in the hall outside the Treasure Room was used to display material illustrating the history of bookmaking; and during the spring, from March 22 to April 21, an exhibition of Bibles and facsimiles of early manuscripts was on view in the Treasure Room in commemoration of the fourth centenary of the printing of Tyndale's translation of the Bible. Reproductions of the pictures by Violet Oakley representing Tyndale printing his translation of the Bible at Cologne in 1525, the smuggling of the New Testament into England, the burning of the books at Oxford in 1526, and Tyndale's death at the stake, from the volume presented by Mr. and Mrs. Bonnell, added interest and color to the exhibition, and the facsimiles of the Gero Codex and of the Codex Aureus, recently acquired, added to other facsimiles already in the possession of the Library, made a very interesting showing of Bible origins. The Book of Amos from the Gutenberg Bible, and other early Latin and German Bibles, including Luther's translation, 1545, the rare Swiss Protestant edition of the New Testament, and the first Greek New Testament printed in America were also shown; but unfortunately, early editions of the Bible in English were lacking, the nearest approach to them being a facsimile reprint of the celebrated Genevan New Testament, 1557, and Erasmus' paraphrase of the New Testament, 1548-49.

The Historical Collection received a large accession of material in response to a special appeal sent out by the Alumnae Association to complete our files for the Semi-Centennial. A great deal of the material received duplicated that already in the Library, but it was necessary to go over it all carefully in order to extract what was needed. Many interesting photographs of college events were added to the permanent collection as well as programs, student publications, etc. The Library was especially happy to add in this way to its file of publications by alumnae, which is still far from complete.

During the semi-centennial celebration, an exhibition of recently published books by alumnae was displayed in the Delivery Room and attracted much attention. The range of interests represented was wide and the quality high. At the same time there was an exhibition in the Pierce Memorial Room of photographs, programs, and student publications illustrating the evolution of various features of college life during fifty years.

The exhibition of books from the Treasure Room was from the Collection of English Poetry, and included two manuscripts accompanied by theses written by candidates for the Wellesley M.A. degree. One of these was the manuscript of Shenstone's Poems and Latin Inscriptions, written in his own hand, illustrated by many pencil sketches and water colors of his estate. This was shown beside A Study of William Shenstone and his critics, with fifteen of his Unpublished Poems and five of his Unpublished Latin Inscriptions, by Miss Alice I. Hazeltine. The other was the autograph manuscript of the poems of Joseph Beaumont, which was accompanied by the edition with introduction and notes by Eloise Robinson, published in 1914 under the title, The Minor Poems of Joseph Beaumont.

Other books exhibited from the Collection were Milton's Poems of 1645; Blake's Songs of Innocence, a copy engraved and hand colored by the author for Samuel Rogers, whose bookplate it bears; the 1813 edition of Shelley's Queen Mab; the Kilmarnock Burns and the Shakespeare and Ben Jonson folios.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

A new method of introducing freshmen to the Library was tried for the first time during the opening week. For several years past the Librarian has addressed the freshmen at this time, describing the building and explaining the Library rules. This year the administration arranged to send the entire class in groups of twelve to the Library at intervals of five minutes. They were met at the entrance by a member of the staff, and were taken to the catalogue, where the use of the catalogue was explained, then to the loan desk where they were instructed in the method of charging books, and from there to different parts of the Library, where members of the staff were stationed to explain the contents of the rooms and their use. The "tour" ended in the Treasure Room, where the Librarian spoke briefly of the collections there and of the use of the Library in general. It was found that the entire class could be conducted through the Library in this way in the course of one day, and the results seem to warrant a repetition of the arrangement another year.

The Library has been represented during the year by members of the staff at meetings of the Eastern College Librarians' Association, the Massachusetts State Library Association, and at the regional meeting of the American Library Association held at Swampscott in June. The loyalty and unfailing interest of the staff in the work of this library need no stimulus; but these meetings with their discussion of problems common to all libraries are often very suggestive, and also give to those who attend them a sense of belonging to a larger group which is very valuable.

In closing this report, I wish once more to express my appreciation of the work of the staff as well as of the advice and assistance of the Library Committee, and the co-operation of other departments of the college administration.

Respectfully submitted,

ETHEL DANE ROBERTS,

Librarian.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

I have the honor to present the following report of the administration of the Library for the year ending June 30, 1926.

During this year we have added to the Library 3,367 volumes, 2,830 by purchase, 537 by gift, the total number of bound volumes now accessioned being 110,962. To this total should be added the Brooks Room Collection of 1,206 volumes; the English Poetry Collection, 2,114 volumes; the Ruskin Collection, 446 volumes; and the Plimpton Collection, 962 volumes,—a total of 115,690 volumes.

We have expended for books $7,602.42; for periodical subscriptions, $2,775.99; for binding and repairs, $1,698.45; a total of $12,076.86. This sum is derived from the income of funds as follows: Horsford, $9,767.41; Sanborn, $147.92; Abbott, $31.83; Shafer, $99.30; Sweet, $279.41; Kirk, $293.43; Morse, $109.10; Jewett, $38.93; Wenckebach, $160.41; Hintermeister, $16.95; from fines, $424.43; from Department fees, $620.23; and from the following gifts: from a gift to the department of History, $10.00; from gifts to the department of English Literature, $19.41; from a gift to the Art Department, $25.00; from gifts to the Library, $33.10.

Besides gifts to the English Poetry Collection noted elsewhere, many gifts to the general collection were received from friends of the College, members of the faculty, and students. Among these might be mentioned the following: thirty-four volumes of the works of Sir Arthur T. Quiller Couch, all first editions, from Mr. Frederic H. Curtiss; Messages and Papers of the Presidents, 11 vols., from Miss Ruth Baetjer, '20; Collected Essays of G. E. Woodberry, 6 vols., from the Woodberry Society; Lydekker's Library of Natural History, 8 vols., from Dr. Mary E. Willcox; American History and Encyclopedia of Music, 12 vols., from Mr. and Mrs. Charles Montague, for the Music Library; six volumes for the Art Library, including two volumes on the paintings and objets d'art in the Wallace Collection, from Mrs. Alice C. Baltzell; five volumes for the same library from Mrs. Eliza Newkirk Rogers, '00.

Among the important purchases of the year were the following: Encyclopedia Americana (new edition), 30 vols.; Phillips, J. C., Natural History of the Ducks, 4 vols.; Goethe, Werke (Proprelæan Ausgabe), Vols. 1-33; Flora Capensis, 10 vols.; Testa, Ignace, Recueil des traités de la Porte Ottomane, 11 vols.; Hall, H. R., Ægean Archæology, 6 vols.; and a set of Ausonia, 5 vols.

During the year many purchases have been made to fill in the gaps in our sets of standard French authors; so that we now have a much more representative collection of French literature than has been the case for some years.

The cataloguing of current accessions reaches a total of 4,888 volumes, including 3,366 books of which 697 were duplicates, 633 periodicals, and 889 continuations. The recataloguing has proceeded satisfactorily along with the current work, a total of 4,304 volumes (representing 1,333 titles) having been completed. This total includes 2,541 books of which 378 were duplicates, 1,093 periodicals, and 670 continuations. It should be remembered that these recataloguing statistics do not show the amount of work done on long sets, where many analytic cards were made.

Total number of books circulated . . . . .	39,301
Reserved books circulated . . . . .	12,433
Charged to students (including reserved books) . . . . .	34,352
Charged to members of the faculty . . . . .	4,892
Charged to alumnæ and others . . . . .	57

The growth of the collection of rare books will very soon necessitate the removal of some of those now in the Treasure Room. Cases in the hall outside the room, as suggested in the Report of the Librarian last year, will provide for this temporarily, but with the continued growth of the collection and the growing interest in its use the time will come when a larger room must be provided to house a collection of which the College is justly proud. Fourteen books have been added to the English Poetry Collection in the Treasure Room. Among the donors are Mrs. Edwin Farnham Greene and Miss Helen Temple Cooke, whose generosity made it possible for Professor Palmer to purchase Cotton Mather's Psalterium Americanum: the Book of Psalms, In a translation exactly conformed unto the Original, but all in Blank Verse; Boston in N. E., 1718; Mary Wollstonecraft's Original Stories from Real Life, London, 1791, illustrated by William Blake, the second edition of the work but the first edition with these illustrations; and the first edition of Abraham Lincoln, A play by John Drinkwater, London, 1918. From Professor Palmer's own library came first editions of several contemporary poets, including the edition of William Ellery Leonard's Two Lives, privately printed in 1922; also The Triumph of Superstition, An Elegy, by a Student of Harvard University [Thaddeus Mason Harris], Boston, 1790; and an edition of Erasmus' Moriae Enconium, in English, with fifty illustrations by Holbein, the first edition with these plates, which are an interesting supplement to Holbein's plates in another edition already in the Treasure Room.

Miss Elizabeth Manwaring, '02, Associate Professor of English Composition, presented first editions of four eighteenth-century poets to the Collection; Poems on Several Occasions by Mary Barber, London, 1734; A poem on the Immortality of the Soul Translated from the Latin of Isaac Hawkins Brown by J. Cranwell, Cambridge (Eng.), 1765; Poems on Several Occasions by John Hughes, London, 1735; and Poems on Several Occasions by Matthew Pilkington, London, 1721.

From Miss Abigail E. Smith, '22, we received The Death of Christopher Marlowe, London, Nonesuch Press, 1925, Second Impression. The Rev. Henry Major, Principal of Ripon Hall, Oxford, who visited the Library last December, later sent to Professor Palmer for our collection the first edition of Paul et Virginie, Paris, 1788.

The gift from Mrs. Robert Barrett Browning of the portraits of Robert and Elizabeth Barrett Browning together with other personalia, including a copy of Asolando received from the publishers by the poet on his deathbed, and by him given to his daughter-in-law, editions of Mrs. Browning's poems in Italian, etc., will as soon as possible be made available to students of the Brownings; and, together with our collection of first editions and autograph letters of the two poets, will form a unique source of interest and information for Browning lovers.

During the year, eight class appointments have been made for the use of the Treasure Room for small classes studying sources of English Literature, and a class in Spanish visited the room to inspect the Spanish manuscripts which were received some years ago from the bequest of Miss Helen Sanborn, '84. A Latin class also came to see some of our rare editions of the Classics. In addition to such use of the room, students are sent more and more often by their instructors to consult books in the room during the hours when it is open. For the second time a group of students from Dana Hall were brought by their instructors to see the Shakespeare folios and other books.

Exhibitions of books from the Sanborn bequest illustrating early Spanish discovery and colonization in America, from the Kate Greenaway Collection, and from the English Poetry Collection have been on view in the exhibition cases at different times during the year.

During the summer of 1925 cases were installed on the fifth floor of the stack, thus making possible the provision of more space for the collections in History and Economics, hitherto very much crowded together on the floor below. By some shifting, the so-called second stack has been entirely given over to history, many books in that subject having been shelved there before; while books formerly in that stack were moved to the new cases on the fifth floor, this being known generally as the fourth stack, the first floor of the stack being called the basement stack. This rearrangement and additional stack room will provide for growth for some years, but it is becoming increasingly evident that some addition to the seating capacity of the older part of the building will have to be made, and this can only be done by an addition to the so-called Department Rooms, History, Economics, Literature, and Classics. The three first named are among the largest departments in college with regard to the number of their students, and there are times during the year when the seating capacity of the present rooms is far from adequate. Seats are also provided as far as possible in the stacks, but only a very few tables can be placed there, and naturally students prefer to study in the room where the reserved shelves are located. The change in teaching methods, which requires a large number of books to be held on reserved shelves, also strains the book capacity of the rooms.

Also, the Librarian may perhaps be permitted to speak of the inconvenience caused by the crowding of five desks into the much too small work room for cataloguing adjacent to her office, and by the fact that the office is so small that when the door between it and the cataloguing room is shut to ensure necessary privacy, the atmosphere in winter soon becomes unbearable.

The need of seminar rooms, for which no provision was made in the plans for the present building, has always been felt by members of the faculty, and such an addition would furnish rooms in the basement for this purpose. At present, one room in the present basement may be used for seminars and two others have been given over to department collections. The History Department has a collection of documents used in courses in government in one room, and a valuable collection of stuffed birds and other things belonging to the Zoology Department are temporarily housed in another until the Zoology Building is built. Another room used as a workroom by the staff also contains several large cases containing a very valuable geological and mineral collection given several years ago to the Geology Department and still without a suitable location.

The success of the method of introducing freshmen to the Library described in the Report of the Librarian for 1924-25 was sufficiently marked so that the same plan was used for the class of 1929. Evidences of familiarity with the Library derived from this "tour" at the beginning of the year have convinced us that it is worth continuing.

A new edition of the Library Handbook has been prepared during the year, and will be ready for distribution to freshmen in the fall.

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

Additions to the furnishing of the Library of very dissimilar nature have been made during the year. The busts of Washington and Franklin presented to the College by the French Government at the time of the semicentennial celebration have now been placed in the Library and are very appropriately located on either side of the doors into the History Room.

The other addition is that of a new case for shelf list cards which has replaced the very antiquated and crowded case which has done duty here since the Library was opened and for many years before that in College Hall. The new case has very much facilitated the work of the staff and has been a great saving of time and temper.

One change in the staff occurred at the beginning of the year, Miss Lucy E. Tripp succeeding Miss Helen B. Straughn, who resigned after three years' service.

At the close of a very busy year, the Librarian wishes to express her gratitude to the staff for their loyal and untiring service, to the many friends of the Library among the faculty whose considerateness lightens the burden on days of great pressure, and especially to the Library Committee and to the Associate Librarians, whose aid in the administration of the Library constitutes such an indispensable factor in its service to the College community.

Respectfully submitted,

ETHEL DANE ROBERTS,

Librarian.

IN MEMORIAM

DR. KATHARINE PIATT RAYMOND

In the death of Dr. Katharine P. Raymond, the New England Women's Medical Society and the great profession of which it is a part have suffered a definite and serious loss. She brought to her chosen work the essentials of a good physician: education, refinement and character, all of them high. She set before a thousand young people an example of the professional woman at her best, a piece of idealism as valuable to them as her personal ministrations. Her colleagues in this Society desire herewith to record their appreciation and their regret.

(Written by Alice H. Bigelow, M.D., for the New England Women's Medical Society and read before the Society at the meeting of October 22, 1925.)

DR. RAYMOND

At sunset of the day she died—
We had not dreamed
That she,
Healer, sustainer, savior, she could die—
A golden cloud
Went flying up the west.
I raised my head in sorrow bowed
And watched the buoyant pride
Of its ascent, until the flame took form;
The splendor seemed
All suddenly to be
A figure winged, with lifted crest
And glowing arm flung high,
As in the blithe adieu
Of a spirit faring free
On the far range
Of an adventure rapturously new.
And oh! so simple and so strange
A thing is grief,
That evanescent cloud consoled me more
Than all death's philosophic lore
And difficult belief.

—KATHARINE LEE BATES.

WELLESLEY

1875-1925

Tune: St. Anne

We give Thee thanks, most gracious Lord
For what the years have brought;
For firm foundation in Thy word
For fruit of noble thought.

For land, for dowry, spacious halls,
We give Thee thanks today;
A candle set in learning's walls
To light the upward way.

But most, O Lord, our thanks we owe
For that great stream of youth,
For fifty years a constant flow
To seek eternal truth.

O God, who art for aye the same,
Through changing years and days,
We magnify Thy holy name
And lift our hearts in praise.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE

TO THE TRUSTEES OF WELLESLEY COLLEGE:

In the following report of the finances of the college for the year ending June 30, 1925, the figures become more interesting and significant if we look briefly at a few underlying facts. The Balance Sheet (Exhibit A) summarizes concisely the financial progress of the year. The routine items therein show the normal variation expected from year to year. There are, however, in each of the three groups, current, plant and trust funds, a few unusual items which call for comment.

The current group shows, for example, large loans. In addition to $10,024.03 advanced temporarily for its own new construction, the college has loaned from income, at a uniform rate of interest, $95,784.61 for other building purposes. Probably the most widely known project is the Wellesley College Club at 131 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston. As an investment, the college bought the building and the land on which it stands for $53,105.70. In addition, the alterations, repairs and furnishings necessary to make the building into a most attractive club house have cost $11,284.61. This sum the college, acting with the Boston Wellesley Club, has advanced from its current funds with the understanding that the Club will ultimately repay the loan. Meantime, several friends have made generous gifts and loans of additional furnishings, and an interested group have, for a period, pledged interest on the current money advanced by the college, while the Boston Wellesley Club pays interest on the original investment in land and building.

The Alpha Kappa Chi Society has for many years occupied a house on a site which the college will need when it builds the proposed residence group in the "orchard." In view of this fact, the society, faced with the need of extensive house repairs, decided to move and rebuild. The college welcomed this decision, purchased the old society house for a temporary psychological laboratory, and loaned $4,500 for rebuilding on the new site. The society is paying interest on the loan and also reducing the principal by semi-annual installments.

As understood at the time of location, the completion of Alumnae Hall necessitated the removal from its immediate vicinity of the Lake Waban Laundry building, as such removal offered the only possible means of securing an adequate setting for a building at once important and imposing. Although the Lake Waban Laundry Company had long realized that moving was inevitable, it had not been able to accumulate funds sufficient to cover such expense. In view of this fact, and of the service which the Lake Waban Laundry renders to the college (a service constituting the reason for the existence of the laundry) it seemed desirable for the college to assist, by a loan, removal to another location. Although repayment will doubtless extend over a considerable period, the amount of $80,000 will be considerably reduced by the decision of the college to acquire ownership of certain outside service lines, the cost of which is now included in the amount loaned to the laundry company.

In the plant group the increase in buildings valuation is due to new construction, actual and proposed, to capitalized alterations in certain buildings, and to purchase from the Waban Real Estate Trust of four houses, Noanett, Crofton, Ridgeway and Webster, three of them already occupied by the college for many years, and the fourth rented for the last three years by the Business Manager. By this purchase the college secures full ownership and control of three important units in its village dormitory system.

The increase in movable equipment is due to two causes, to purchases through the year of $18,062.57, and to an inventory adjustment for a five-year period of $118,712.84, that being the excess revealed by the physical inventory as the amount to be added to the book valuation of movable equipment.

In permanent endowment the notable addition of the Katharine Lee Bates Poetry Fund came through the gift of $10,000 from a generous friend and alumna of the Class of 1898, Miss Eunice Smith, to whom the college has long been indebted for an annual series of poets' readings. By establishing this fund, Miss Smith makes permanent a valuable and much-appreciated contribution to college life and activity.

Aside from the Semi-Centennial Fund, the increase shown this year in unrestricted funds is due almost entirely to the restoration to principal of money temporarily invested in dormitories.

The investment of trust funds shows a marked increase in investment in real estate due to two factors already noted,—the purchase of the Wellesley College Club and of village dormitories.

Turning to the exhibit of Income and Expenditures, we find, for the first time in four years, annual expenditures exceeding annual income with a resulting deficit for the year of $10,198.02. For this deficit there are two reasons—increased expense, decreased student income. Apart from maintenance costs, the increase in expenditures was largely due to advance in academic salaries, an addition which improves our salary scale, but still leaves much to be desired; and to the cost of $11,003 for our Semi-Centennial Celebration. As to lowered income, the student registration for November, 1924, was fifty less than in November of the previous year. This decrease was at once reflected not only in lessened tuition fees but still more in lowered receipts for board. As the college has sought for some years to avoid increase in student registration, the smaller attendance is by no means an unmixed evil and, in itself, would not have caused the deficit. Although the current operations of the year show a deficit, yet because of the surplus figure brought forward from 1924, the accounts as a whole still show an accumulated surplus of $8,740.97. Without the expense of the Semi-Centennial celebration, and with a slightly increased registration, the current operations for 1925-26 should show a greatly reduced deficit. With the increased charges for tuition and residence for new students entering in September, 1926, and thereafter, the Trustees may hope for no further deficit and may possibly be able to initiate the long-deferred policy of establishing an actual fund to cover depreciation of buildings and fixed equipment, and to provide a means of replacing them when necessary.

The supplementary schedules speak for themselves by showing details for items summarized on the Balance Sheet and on the statement of Income and Expenditures, and by making such information more interesting in the full than in the summarized form.

Respectfully submitted,

LEWIS KENNEDY MORSE, Treasurer.
